Introduction

The STAR Patient Care Reference Guide Report Names Volume provides a list of the reports generated by the STAR Patient Care modules for which there are system report names. These reports include batch and demand. For STAR Patient Care system report names the following is true:

- A final letter of X identifies that the report can be generated for a specific facility (for example, FFVX).
- For Order Management and Clinical Management reports, the suffix (AAA) identifies the Department - for example, CMLX(AAA). In this example, AAA might represent CAR, the department code for the Cardiology Department.
- For Patient Processing Reports, the suffix J (FAC1XJ) identifies that the report can be generated for a specific clinical site/institution as well as for the facility as whole.

NOTE: You can use the STAR Audit Service to audit user requests for certain reports. The Audit Service collects and stores information such as report request date and time, the name of the user requesting the report, and the criteria selected for the report. The report requests that can be audited are marked with a plus sign (+). For more information, see the STAR Audit Service Reference Guide.

The STAR Patient Care Reference Guide Report Names Volume contains the following chapters:

Chapter 1: System Report Names By Report Descriptions

This chapter lists the system report names by report description.

Chapter 2: System Report Names By Maintenance Name

This chapter lists the system report names by maintenance name.

Chapter 3: System Report Names By Module

This chapter lists the system report names by module.

Following is a list of abbreviations used within the document:

CN - Ontario

BC - British Columbia

US - US-only version.
